CONTINUING A TRADITION

Wenger Corporation began in 1946 with our founder, Harry Wenger. As a music teacher himself, Harry's vision was to develop innovative products that made an impact in the classroom and on the stage. Harry's ingenuity continues today with the spirit of innovation and support he inspired to become a worldwide leader in every market we serve.

The addition of J.R. Clancy to the Wenger family in 2011 greatly expanded our presence in the performing arts field. Today, we offer the broadest product line in the industry and we work closely with venues of all sizes, from community playhouses to international opera houses.

Wenger's line of GearBoss products is also setting a new standard in athletic programs, creating breakthroughs in space, organization and spirit for high schools and professional franchises alike.

With over 800,000 square feet (74,322 square meters) of manufacturing space, we supply a broad array of products and service for music education, performing arts and athletics.
